J. S. DEFENSES IN DIRE NEED OF SHRAPNEL

Supply of This Country Pitiful in Comparison With Europe's - Frankford the Sole Manufactory.

The present unpreparedness of the United States to defend herself from land attack by hostile nations, according to military men, has perhaps never before been better illustrated than today, when large corporations, knowing this Government operates only one plant for the manufacture of shrapnel complete, are either erecting or contemplating building great establishments to make artillery

It is generally conceded by army experts in a position to know that in Europe at the present time any one of the great nations at war is firing more shrapnel in a single week than is manufactured by this Government in a year. Lieutenant Tolonel George Montgomery, commandant of the Frankford Arsenal, says a remerve store of 10,000,000 pieces of threeinch shrappel alone, to say nothing of other ammunition, is needed to place our land defenses in a position to cope with audden emergency.

Coupled with this statement, Colonel Montgomery rejuctantly admitted it would take the Frankford Arsenal from would take the Frankford Arsenal from seven to ten years to make that number of mechanical fuses, to say nothing of shrapnel cases. And the Frankford Ar-senal is the only Government plant mak-

INTRICACIES OF SHRAPNEL FUSE. A shrapnel fuse is nearly as intricate as a watch. It is made up of a number of brass and steel parts, which are turned out on especially prepared machinery. Some of the parts, particularly the spiral container, each round of which holds a few grains of high explosive, are so carefully made, that a deviation of 1-1000 part of an inch will cause a hitch in ignition. When complete these fuses are inserted in the forward end of a shrapnel case and set like the combination of a safe, to and set like the combination of a season act under given conditions. By manipulation of a graduated dise the shell is made to explode at any given distance after being fired from a field plece.

It is in the manufacture of these delicate and deadly instruments the United States falls dangerously behind other

RESERVE PITIFULLY INADEQUATE. To army men this condition is distressing. Many of them are unable to understand why the Government has taken no action to fortify itself against invasion. They say if a foreign Power once conquered the United States navy. this country would be paying indemnity to its antagonist at the expiration of one

Even Congressman Michael Donohoe who has done much toward the enlarge-ment of Frankford Arsenal and has worked for an increased appropriation to the end that the plant's output may be increased, admits with regret the present inadequacy of the Government reserve ammunition fund. "At the present time," he said, "It would take us years to prefor a situation we should now be ready to handle."

PLANS TO INCREASE PRODUCT.

This condition long realized by manufacturing concerns backed by sufficient capital to enable them to produce am-munition in addition to their regular commodity, has led to considerable inquiry regarding the making of shrapnel.

In one instance this activity has taken a tangible foothold. The Bethlehem Steel Company has in course of erection on a hillside at its Reddington proving ground department for the manufacture of uses for ammunition. It is said here all the various types of time and de-tonating fuses will be constructed, both for shrapnel and shell ammunition.

It has also been rumored for some time that the William Cramp Ship and Engine Building Company of this city has been contemplating a similar step, but confirmation of this report is lacking. Other concerns have been similarly seen.

concerns have been similarly named.

The new Bethlehem plant is about a half mile west of the Lehigh Valley Rall-road station. Officials of the steel company are reticent about their new venture and the matter is not discussed outside.

Charles M. Schwah. Charles M. Schwab, president of the company, is in Europe. His assistant, John D. Hagenbuch, beyond admitting that a fuee plant is to be built, will not discuss the work. "It is true we are building such an addition to our works." he said, "but I can say nothing further about it at this time."

BCHWAB'S COMPANY INQUIRING. It is known, however, representatives of the Schwab company have for some time been visiting Frankford Arsenal and of the Schwab company have for some time been visiting Frankford Arsenal and familiarizing themselves with every detail in the manufacture of fusea for shrapnel. Colonel Montgomery conducted them through the local institution, furnished data concerning machinery, workmen and output and in every way sided the Bethlehem men in their quest in the interest of fuse manufacture.

"I was glad to help them," said Colonel Montgomery in discussing the matter. "I was glad to help them," said Colonel Montgomery in discussing the matter. "The new Bethlehem plant will be of great assistance to this Government in the manufactures of shrapnel needed as a resserve supply in case of smergency. I look upon Mr. Schwab's decision to creci a fuse plant as one of the most patriotic services he could have rendered his country. When the new establishment is finished it and the Frankford Arsenal will be the only two places in the United States where shrapnel is made complete. Fleatly of large concerns, including Bethlehem, make casings at the present time, but just now our arsenal here is the only place where fuses complete are made and assembled. It will be difficult to estimate the value of what assistance the Government can get from the Schwab works."

ORDERS FROM FRANKFORD.

ORDERS FROM FRANKFORD. Frankford Arsenal orders at present considerable cases or forgings from the Bethiehem Steel Company. They now Bethlehem Steel Company. They now have an order with that concern for $0.000 for sings. These will be used to make up a portion of the requisition for $2.230,000 worth of three-inch shrapnal which the local institution is saled to produce this year.

Considerable four-inch shrapnel has also been ordered from the Prankford Avenue.

ALLEGED AGENT OF GOVERNMENT CHECK SWINDLER

Detectives Seek Man Who Pretended Detail to Build Coast Defenses at Sea Girt.

POINT PLEASANT, N. J., Nov. 10 .-The combined efforts of two Burns' detectives, County Detective William Shafto, the police forces of the Jersey coast towns and a number of private individuals have failed so far in the search for 'Samuel Hezz, a Government engineer detailed to do some extensive construction work in connection with the national coast defenses at Sea Girt," and who incidentally buncoed merchants along the coast during the last few days.

appearance, presented himself last Saturday night at the office of the Van Note Lumber Company and purchased lumber osting about $450. He said the Government had sent him to construct coast defenses at Sea Girt, but that the matter must be kept secret. In payment for the lumber he tendered a check for $474.56 made out to him by George Jones on the First National Bank of Chester, Pa., and certified by O. H. Williams, "Cashler," The change he placed in his pocket and engaged accommodations at the Marion

HIS PLANS A DEEP SECRET. Bright and early yesterday morning he made the acquaintance of Frederick W. Makin, a baker. Half an hour later he had engaged Makin's daughter as his stenographer, after confiding to Makin the secret of his mission. The girl was warned against divulging any official

With Makin and his stenographer Hess went to the Ocean County National Bank yesterday and, under a pretext of wishing to make a deposit with which to pay incidental accounts of the work at Sea Girt he presented to Cashier Clarence Chafey two checks similar to that given the VanNote Lumber Company, one for $350 and the other for $100. In the meantime the VanNote check had been banked and Mr. Chafey was not satisfied with the nature of the certification.

He refused to cash the $350 check without indentification of Hess, and Arthur A. Zimmerman, former world's champlon bicycle rider and now proprietor of the Marion Hotel, was sent for. Hess asked him to identify him by indorsing the $190. Zimmerman did so and Chafey gave Zimmerman the $100. theck for $350 Hess left for deposit.

CHECK SPURIOUS, AGENT GONE. With Miss Makin he left the bank for Spring Lake where he had "other business to attend to." Chafey hastened to a telephone and was informed by the First National Bank of Chester that the paper was spurious. He then got in touch with Prosecutor Harry Newman, who detailed County Detective Shafto to the case. Before going to Spring Lake, Hess had borrowed from Zimmerman a new overcoat and when the latter heard of the fraud he got into an automobile and trailed the impostor to Spring Lake. He found him in the office of the Lewis Lumber Company, where he was pre-paring to purchase some more lumber for the coast defense at Sea Girt, Zimmerman asked for his overcoat and it was handed to him. He then accused Hess of forging the checks.

out for his arrest, charging him with forgery. Zimmerman returned the $100 to the bank. Cashler Chafey communicated with the Bankers' Protective Association and two Burns operatives were detailed to the case.

Hess is about five feet seven inches tall and weighs about 200 pounds. He is about 55 years old.

Democrats Still in Control," He Says of Recent Election. WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—President Wilson, in giving his first views on the recent election today, set an example in bravity for the members of his Cabinet who have talked freely lately. The President was asked by newspaper correspondents if he wished to say anything on the result.

"Isn't it very evident that the Demo-crata still are in control of the Governent?" he queried in reply, with a slow
